

Magnetic Light

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention discloses a magnetic light, including an air-filled light body having an inner cavity, at least a through slot defined on the light body, and a 5 fluorescent layer coated onto said inner cavity. A magnetic body is penetrating through the through slot for providing high frequency resonance purposes for replacing conventional filament so as to improve the efficiency and life span of the light.